Appointments: We advise that appointments are made to see our doctors as it helps minimise wait times. If you arrive late, there may be a delay as other patients with appointment will be seen first. Patients are not seen on an 'as you arrive basis'. The doctors strive to see their patients on the appointed time. Emergencies and unforeseen circumstances, however, cause delays. As such there may be a little wait for your appointment. Long consultations are available if required.

Recalls: Doctors at this practice routinely organise phone calls or reminder letters to patients regarding further consultation and assessment. Patients also have availability to PAP screening (recalls are registered with the National State- Territory reminder system/ register and the patient is then routinely recalled). Patients may advise their doctor if they object to inclusion in reminder systems or registers.

For reasons of potential breach of confidentiality and chances of clinical errors our practice may choose not to discuss clinical matters over telephone. Results of tests performed are never given over phone due to the above reasons.

Telephone access and electronic communication: Patients have access to our general practitioners over telephone under limited circumstances at the discretion of the treating practitioners. Our practice does not communicate to patients via E-mail.
